2019-11-10

Concepto de violencia ámbito privado

Beyond the private scope, the Act also recognizes that domestic violence can extend into public spaces, making it essential to provide protection beyond the home. While the specific articles addressing this aspect are not explicitly detailed in the available sources, the Act ensures that protection orders can prohibit abusers from approaching or contacting victims at their workplaces, educational institutions, or other public places. It further criminalizes harassment, stalking, and intimidation in any location, reinforcing that domestic violence is not only a private issue but also a public concern. The enforcement of protection orders in public settings ensures that survivors are safeguarded from continued abuse, no matter where they go. The law prohibits rape but it does not specifically address spousal rape. There is anecdotal evidence of this problem which is often under-reported. The subject is a controversial and cultural argument; and there is not broad public support for legislation so public education and awareness is necessary. Section 2 - "domestic violence" means any controlling or abusive behaviour that harms the health, safety or well-being of a person or any child and includes but is not limited to the following: (a) physical abuse or threats of physical abuse or threats of physical abuse; (b) sexual abuse or threats of sexual abuse; (c) emotional, verbal or psychological abuse; (d) economic abuse; intimidation; (f) harassment; (g) stalking; (h) damage to or destruction of property; or (i) entry into the applicant's residence without consent, where the parties do not share the same residence. Section 2- The Act is amended in section 2 titled "Interpretation" (c) by replacing the definition of economic abuse" as follows -- "economic abuse" includes -- (a) the avoidance of financial obligation owed to the applicant and child or dependent of the respondent, including mortgage or rental obligations; or (b) situation where, without the consent of the applicant, the respondent exercises full access and control over the financial resources of the applicant in a manner that is not in the best interest of the applicant."

Concepto de violencia ámbito público

The Domestic Violence (Protection Orders) Act, No. 9 of 2014 of Saint Kitts and Nevis provides a legal framework for addressing domestic violence within both private and public spheres. The Act defines domestic violence as various forms of abuse occurring within domestic relationships, ensuring that individuals are protected from physical, sexual, emotional, psychological, and economic harm. In the private scope, the Act recognizes physical abuse as any act or omission that causes injury or instills a reasonable fear of harm. Sexual abuse is defined as coerced sexual contact within a domestic setting, while emotional or psychological abuse refers to patterns of intimidation, threats, or harassment aimed at undermining a person's mental well-being. Additionally, economic abuse is included to address financial control and dependency, ensuring that victims are not subjected to undue financial hardship. In section 2 "economic abuse means the avoidance of financial obligations owed to the applicant and child or a dependant of the respondent, including mortgage or rental obligations."

International bodies have recommended that Saint Kitts and Nevis amend its Criminal Code to include specific provisions on femicide. For instance, the UN Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW) has urged the country to incorporate such provisions to enhance legal protections against gender-based killings. As of now, the legal framework in Saint Kitts and Nevis does not recognize femicide as a distinct crime, relying instead on general homicide laws to prosecute such offenses.

In St. Kitts and Nevis abortion is primarily governed by the Offences Against the Person Act and the Infant Life (Preservation) Act, both of which are based on British legislation. Abortion is legally permitted only when the woman's life is at risk due to the pregnancy. Specifically, the Infant Life (Preservation) Act allows for abortion at any stage of pregnancy if performed "in good faith for the purpose only of preserving the life of the mother." However, the law does not provide exceptions for cases of rape, incest, or fetal abnormalities. There are no known administrative resolutions, healthcare protocols, or sexual violence guidelines in St. Kitts and Nevis that decriminalize abortion or expand its legal grounds beyond the preservation of the mother's life. Consequently, abortions performed for therapeutic, eugenic reasons, or in cases of rape or incest remain illegal.

Section 7 Cohabitation with unmarried girl under sixteen - (1) Any male person who cohabits with an unmarried girl under sixteen years commits an offence and shall be liable, on conviction, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding five years. (2) For the purposes of this section, a belief, even though reasonable, that the girl is over sixteen years shall afford no defence to a charge under this section (Inserted by Act 36 of 1976; amended by Act 10 of 1998).

the power from time to time to rescind or vary such order by the appointment of any other person or persons as such guardian, or in any other respect. The legislation, while focused on domestic violence, does not explicitly address all the differentiated impacts but does recognize the vulnerability of certain groups. It provides a broad definition of domestic violence and focuses on protecting women and children but could be applied to individuals in other vulnerable situations, such as those with disabilities, ethnic minorities, or those facing socioeconomic challenges. The Act also provides protection and specific legal remedies for these groups in a way that can be considered as addressing the differentiated impacts of domestic violence on them. The sections identified are the sections that would be relevant to each of the three groups, particularly in terms of vulnerable groups and the differentiated impacts they might face

Section 2 (Interpretations) - the Act addresses girls and adolescents under the term "child" where "child" means a person under the age of eighteen years who: (a) normally resides with the applicant or, whether or not the child is a applicant and the respondent or either of them; or (b) is an adopted child, a stepchild, or a child who is treated as a child of the family; or (c) is related by consanguinity or affinity to either the applicant or the respondent or (d) is in the care and protection of the applicant or the respondent; or (e) is a person of whom either the applicant or the respondent is a guardian; or (f) is or has been a member of a shared household; and (g) is not a person who is or has been married; "applicant" means a person who applies or on whose behalf an application is made for an order pursuant to section 5;

Section 5 (Person entitled for a protection order) - (1) a person referred to in subsection (2) may apply to the Court, in the form set out as I in Schedule II, for a protection order on the grounds that the respondent engaged in domestic violence. (2) An application for a protection order referred to in subsection (1), may be made by: (a) the spouse of the respondent; (b) a member of a shared household, either on his or her own behalf or on behalf of any other member of the shared household; (c) a child; (d) a dependant; (e) a parent or sibling by consanguinity or affinity of either the spouse or respondent not being a member of the shared household; (f) a person who has a child in common with the respondent; and (g) a person who is or has been in a visiting relationship with a person of the opposite sex. (4) Pursuant to subsection (3) (a), a child or dependant may apply for a protection order through: (a) a person with whom the child or dependant ordinarily or periodically resided or resided with or is reliant upon for his or her welfare or any adult member of his or her household; (b) a parent or guardian or a person who is in loco parentis to the child; or (c) the Director or other person who has parental responsibility for the child.

On Nevis, gender affairs functions are carried out by a Department of Gender Affairs within the NIA's own Ministry of Health and Gender Affairs. While the federal Department dates to 1986, Nevis's standalone Department of Gender Affairs in the NIA appears to have been formally constituted around the early 2000s, when the NIA began mirroring federal social-services structures at the island level.

Existencia del divorcio unilateral.

Nombre de la normativa y/o reglamento

The legislation governing divorce in St. Kitts and Nevis is the Divorce Act, 2005, which replaced the earlier Matrimonial Causes Act. This Act allows for unilateral divorce, meaning one spouse can petition for divorce without the consent of the other, provided certain conditions are met. Under the Divorce Act, 2005, a petitioner must demonstrate that the marriage has irretrievably broken down, which can be established through various grounds such as adultery, unreasonable behavior, desertion, or separation for a specified period. Notably, the Act removed the previous requirement that parties had to be married for at least three years before filing for divorce. Now, there is no minimum duration of marriage required before initiating divorce proceedings, as long as the irretrievable breakdown of the marriage can be proven.

Section 7 - (grounds for divorce) - This section stipulates that a petition for divorce may be presented by either spouse on specific grounds, including, adultery committed by the other spouse; cruelty by the other spouse; desertion by the other spouse for a continuous period of at least one year; and separation if the spouses have lived apart for at least one year immediately preceding the presentation of the petition. Divorce may be petitioned by either party without requiring mutual consent; grounds must be proven (e.g. adultery, desertion, cruelty).

Section 3(jurisdiction of court in divorce proceedings) - this section outlines the jurisdictional requirements for the court to hear divorce proceedings, stating that the court may hear and determine any divorce or nullity proceedings if either spouse has been ordinarily resident in Saint Christopher and Nevis for at least one year immediately preceding the commencement of the proceedings. These sections collectively establish the framework for unilateral divorce in Saint Kitts and Nevis, allowing either spouse to petition for divorce based on specific grounds without requiring mutual consent.

According to a Times Caribbean Online article titled " Divorce Rates Skyrocket in St. Kitts and Nevis," over 500 marriages were dissolved across the federation between 2019-2023, with an average of 100+ divorces annually. The article notes that women initiated nearly 75% of those divorce proceedings, pointing to a high rate of unilateral filings even in a fault-based system. While this data originates from a media source, it helps fill a gap due to the absence of formally published divorce statistics by the judiciary or national statistics office. However, it is also important to note that while the Times Caribbean Online article provides useful figures, it is based on unnamed official sources, and the government does not routinely publish full annual divorce statistics by cause of party initiating.

In the Saint Kitts and Nevis National Report prepared for ECLAC (2024), "femicide or feminicide" is explicitly listed as a core Physical Autonomy Indicator (Indicator E.14) but no disaggregated national figure - neither absolute number nor rate per 100,000 women is provided for the Federation. Instead, the report resorts to "gender-related killings of women" (intentional homicides of female victims) as a proxy measure. For the Caribbean subregion, Figure 4 shows that, for the period of 2019-2022, St. Kitts and Nevis consistently reported 1 lethal gender-related killing of women each year, with zero fluctuation-i.e., the absolute count "remained consistent" at 1 case per year. No per 100,000 rate is calculated, given the small absolute numbers and population base of 25,000 women which falls short of 100,000 making the calculation quite difficult. There is also no dedicated femicide registry or specialized VAW homicide database maintained by police prosecutors, or the judiciary in Saint Kitts and Nevis; rather, records are embedded within general homicide statistics. The narrative calls for standardized legal definitions of femicide/feminicide in domestic law and for intersectoral coordination - linking police, courts, and the Department of Gender Affairs to ensure gender-disaggregated recording of all homicide investigations and judicial outcomes. Finally, in its recommendations the report urges the adoption of a formal legislation for femicide/feminicide aligning with the SDG Indicator 5.2.1, creation of an interagency protocol to publish annual counts and rates of femicide, including attempted killings, alongside details on victim age, nationality and case outcomes, as well as the strengthening of statistical systems by designating a lead agency (e.g. the Department of Statistics) to validate and report the data.
